

The rise of the information economy has sparked an unprecedented shift in responsibility from the company to the individual. In order to make the most of our careers, we must invest in ourselves. Currency is that investment: a robust networking platform that combines traditional in-person events with today's digital connectivity. Comprised of engaged professionals and entrepreneurs who aspire to take their work to the next level, Currency aims to compound innovation through the contextual exchange of ideas and resources across divergent industries.

Currency. Connecting Human Capital.
